As a reminder, the purpose of the FSID program is to facilitate informal communication between faculty and undergraduate students. In order to foster an informal relationship the maximum size of the group should not exceed 15 students. Note: If your class has more than 15 students you will need to break the class into two or more separate groups and host separate meals, on separate occasions, for each group.

- * A&S faculty at the rank of Lecturer in Language, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor may host dinners.
-  Dinners may not be scheduled during the final week of classes nor during the reading or finals periods. The last possible date for the spring 2017 semester is April 24, 2017. The last day to submit an FSID form is April 3, 2017. Please keep in mind that Passover is April 11-April 18, which might present an issue for some of your students who want to participate. Please remember that forms must be submitted at least 5 business days in advance. University holidays do not count as business days.
